Reports from the Confederate home are to the effect that the garden is expected to surpass any in this section of the state, and the best of the many prize gardens cultivated there since the home was established. The old boys take great pride in the cultivation of this garden, and, as most of them were practical farmers, it is a diversion that they understand and enjoy.

Hibernation.
All sleep is phenomenal, but the sleep which endures the winter through with some warm-blooded animals which find themselves suddenly surrounded by frigid weather, and when all functions that make for the best of life are as if they had never been, is most curious. While it is mainly explicable it is none the less astonishing.

In Memory of W. A. Wimbish.
I was surprised and deeply shocked at the phone call Monday morning, which announced the sudden death of my true friend and business associate, whom I have known for the past 12 or 14 years. When he made an acquaintance, it meant another friend added to the long list of ardent admirers. He was one man beloved by all, the rich and poor, high and low, learned and unlearned, old and young, all smiled and had a pleasant word. You only had to mention his name. And when I stood beside his casket and viewed him surrounded by such an abundance of beautiful flowers, I thought, how sweet to leave this world thus and then I thought how important it is that we scatter more flowers around the living, and regretted that I hadn't thrown more roses in his path while he walked among us. We should imitate his example—have a good word, a pleasant smile and a happy greeting for everyone whom we meet.

While he enjoyed his fun, I regarded him a true Christian gentleman, always observing the Golden Rule—"Do unto others as you would have them do unto you."

When I thought of his passing away just after the close of Easter Sunday, I wondered if all his friends believed as strongly as I do in the resurrection—All we can do now, is to so live that when our summons comes, we will be prepared for that resurrection unto life eternal. I cherish the hope that his wife and children and all friends will meet him again. We shall know as we are known.

A FRIEND.

DEFEATED BUT NOT DISFIGURED

It seems that the "Independents" did a lot of romping over the old line democratic nominees at the recent city election in this section of the state, an independent chief of police was elected in this city over the democratic nominee selected in the primary, and over in Sulphur an independent nominee for mayor put "Uncle" Dan Kendall out of the running, and he will be compelled to remain a private citizen for at least two years longer. Mr. Kendall was in the city and stated that, although defeated, he was in no wise disfigured and was just as good looking as he was before the ballots were cast. He declares the office of mayor of Sulphur is his by right of peaceful possession, but is willing to loan it to ambitious young men for a season, with the understanding that he is to recall it when desired. This he always has done while democrats and republicans did the voting, but when that "Independent" got to starting things, he is at a loss to know whether to trust to his former method or not and has about concluded that the next time he enters upon the duties of mayor of Sulphur he will, like the German emperor, keep it for life.

Old-Timer Here Yesterday

J. H. Speigle of Hollis, Okla., was in the city yesterday, registered at the Whittington. Mr. Speigle was one of the pioneers of this city and for several years conducted a bakery and confectionery business where the Randall building now is. He was burned out during the great fire, but almost before the ashes were cold, had lumber on the lot and erected a box house in which to conduct his business. He left Ardmore several years ago, and is now a resident of Hollis.

From ward 1, G. H. Bruce; ward 2, Dr. J. C. McNeese; ward 3, J. B. Thompson; ward 4, C. E. Ringer. Under the former law, two members were elected from each ward, with none at large.

THE secret of a good appearance does not depend upon how much is spent for clothes, but how well the clothes retain the appearance of unwrinkled newness.

Almost any suit that fits properly will look well when first worn; the test comes after a period of service.

It is the remarkable way in which the test of service is met, that is building national favor for Moisture Absorbed by Granite.

A coat made of granite, while perhaps not the most comfortable article of wearing apparel—although granite in thin sheets is flexible—might be thought to be storm proof; yet granite will absorb a considerable amount of moisture. If a cubic yard of granite that had been completely dried out were immersed in pure water, it would, according to the United States Geological survey, after a short time, take up four gallons of water.

And He Did.

A country deacon went home one evening and complained to his wife that he had been abused down at the store shamefully. "One of the neighbors," he said, "called me a liar." Her eyes flashed with indignation. "Why didn't you tell him to prove it?" she exclaimed. "That's the very thing—that's the trouble," replied the husband; "I told him to prove it, and he did."

Kerosene Found Effective.

Investigations have been carried on to discover remedies for insects which damage such forest products as telegraph poles, railroad ties and tool handles. With hardwood products liable to attack by the so-called powder beetle it has been found that kerosene and linseed oil are effective repellents against these insects.

Isn't This The best Indication that the Cash Way is the Best Way?

When merchants who have sold goods for years decide to quit selling on credit and embark in the cash business, isn't that a pretty good argument for the cash system?

The cash system is not only good for the customer, but it is good for the merchant as well, in that it eliminates needless worry over accounts, and gives him more time to look after the needs of his patrons, because he is not compelled to spend half his time keeping books and chasing hard-pay customers who are "good when they have the money."

I could write volumes telling of the advantages of cash buying, but I would rather you would give my system a personal investigation.

The best way to start is to buy a coupon book. Do it today.
